

Eleven Rivington

Published May 8, 2013

JERONIMO ELESPE

The Madrid artist presents the latest of his intimately scaled paintings on aluminum, of figures and interior scenes rendered from memory. Also on view are Elespe's drawings, which, while as small as his paintings, involve nonrepresentational layerings of lines, textures and tones, possibly meant to evoke the process of remembering itself.