

ARTNEWS

Published December 5, 2016

9 ART EVENTS TO ATTEND IN NEW YORK CITY THIS WEEK
OPENING: ANNA GLANTZ AT 11R

By the editors of ARTnews

Anna Glantz, Polar Bath, 2016, oil on canvas. Courtesy the artist and 11R

Anna Glantz's quaint-looking paintings take the figural impulse of many young artists right now and move it toward an emotional end. Her dreamy scenes find cats observing winter landscapes, thin hands caressing each other, and a man pondering his existence in front of a Marsden Hartley–esque background. This show, titled “Stones for Sandman,” will feature new paintings by the Queens-based artist, among them one work in which a striped cat returns the viewer’s stare.